

CAPABILITIES

copy editing services

Glenn Johnson is an experienced professional engineer, IT consultant and technical writer with a Masters degree in linguistics. He has had over twenty years experience in the engineering and information technology fields, in both business and government, and has a strong understanding of cross-cultural communication issues.

He is currently the editor for the Australian monthly B2B magazine What's New in Process Technology (Westwick-Farrow Publishing Pty Ltd), and it's associated website processonline.com.au.

Glenn can provide copy editing services for documents in Australian, American and British English, and rewrite for international audiences. He applies his technical and scientific background and experience to provide copy editing, proofreading and plain English rewriting services for:

- Installation guides and user manuals
- Scientific and technical articles
- Academic papers and theses
- Conference proceedings
- Technical white papers
- Company reports
- Training materials
- Sales brochures
- Newsletters
- Magazines
- Fact sheets
- Text books
- Websites